Don't Fail to Register!

The supporters of the citizens' ticket should register without another day's delay.

Why not attend to it today? All that you have to do is to pay your city tax for last year and get your receipt. That registers you.

The opposition has been active in the registration business, and its followers hope to profit by our negligence.

The citizens' ticket is so thoroughly identified with the progress and welfare of Atlanta that it should be elected by a rousing majority. But this majority cannot be secured without the prompt registration of the friends of the ticket.

Another important reason for a full registration is the fact that the question of the waterworks bonds will be submitted to our voters in the coming municipal election. Unless a full vote is cast this question cannot be decided. Let us have a full registration and a full vote!

Mr. Thomas Steps to the Front.

We observe that Mr. Augustus Thomas, the author of "Alabama," has written a long letter in reply to some Birmingham criticisms of his play. We do not know whether Mr. Thomas wrote his letter for publication or not, but it is printed in The Age-Herald, and it is a curious and interesting document. If the letter was intended for publication it is what might be called "fresh," giving forth the odor of that particular kind of greenness which sometimes clings to our ablest citizens. Just why Mr. Thomas should feel impelled to write a reply to criticisms of his play and to undertake a defense of all the details as they appear on the stage is one of the mysteries that no fellow can find out.

We gather from the publication that Mr. Thomas is of the opinion that he has written a great play, but in this he is mistaken. He has written a very pretty play, but the success of it rests wholly in the patriotic motive that underlies the rather strained and meager plot. As to character drawing, there is not the ghost of a shadow of it in the drama, though there is a rather clumsy attempt to portray the outward and visible appearance of types.

The Waterworks Plan Consummated.

With the purchase of the Green property, or probably what is better known as the Foster place, for the reservoir site, yesterday, the city completed its plan for the construction of the new waterworks.

It was known for several days that the negotiations for the reservoir site were approaching consummation, and there was lively interest in yesterday's all-day session of the waterworks committee. So much depended on the result of the negotiations that THE CONSTITUTION has refrained from publishing probabilities, a statement of which might have interfered with the success of the negotiations. We give the news now when it is an accomplished fact, having been practically settled yesterday morning.

It is good news—the best Atlanta has had for many a day. The last feature of the plan has been perfected, and the last step has been taken in preparation for the building of new waterworks. All that remains is for the people to vote the bonds, and that seems assured.

A clear idea of the general plan of the works was given in Sunday's CONSTITUTION, but there are several things to be said about the reservoir site. All the points Mr. Hutchison made in favor of a reservoir near the city limits apply with special force to the site selected. Located at the city limits on the belt railroad, it occupies the best position for fire pressure, and at the same time has the advantage of a railroad track already built. The city will save $10 a car on coal by dispensing with the drayage, which costs $1,500 a year. An important feature of the purchase is that it will be made with 44 per cent bonds at par. The thoroughness and excellence of the plan were so fully shown by Chairman Hutchison in his interview of Sunday that it is unnecessary to go into details again, but suffice it to say that the purchase of this reservoir site completes the plans for a waterworks system that will be a credit to Atlanta.

It is hinted that Senator Brice, who is chairman of the democratic national committee, refused to assist Governor Campbell because he was afraid the republicans would out him from his seat. Mr. Brice, we believe, was chairman of the democratic committee in 1888 when the slump occurred.

Mr. Mills has written a card; but it is a pity that a free coinage man should feel compelled to write a card to show that he is not engaged in forming a gold-bug trust.

an opportunity for this work. The expensive trunk sewers will soon be completed, and the waterworks will be the only heavy undertaking on the city. The population has increased 10,000 within the past year, and the taxable property has reached the great total of $48,000,000. Some of our most conservative councilmen see no reason why the tax rate may not be reduced as soon as the waterworks are completed; for it is calculated that they will be a source of increased revenue from the start. The consumption of water for manufacturing purposes will increase with great rapidity when we get a supply, and the employment of labor will be proportionately enlarged. In a word, the completion of the waterworks will mark an epoch in Atlanta's history.

Judge Hopkins On the Campaign.

In another column will be found an admirable letter from Judge John L. Hopkins, chairman of the citizens' executive committee.

Judge Hopkins in his pointed and incisive way clearly outlines the issues of our municipal campaign.

Our readers will agree with Judge Hopkins that nothing produces more strife and bitterness than the prohibition question. After two such campaigns, with their resulting "public calamities" in Atlanta, the judge believes in peace and harmony, especially at a time when the interests of the city demand the united efforts of our people.

We cannot afford to waste our energies in attempting to enforce obnoxious laws not supported by public sentiment. Past experience teaches us that we can strictly regulate the liquor traffic, and THE CONSTITUTION is in favor of the strictest sort of enforcement of the law.

It is a hopeful sign of the times to see men like Judge Hopkins taking an active interest in our city politics. The wise and conservative views of one whose lofty character and fearless devotion to principle are so generally recognized cannot fail to do good. His platform is one upon which we should all get together and stand. In his terse language it is "Peace, harmony and resolute work for Atlanta!"

On that platform the citizens' ticket will win, and with that sentiment for our motto Atlanta will take another long leap forward. But Judge Hopkins' letter speaks for itself.

This Is Not Rapid Transit.

The through cross-town schedules of the consolidated lines do not seem to work well in the important matter of quickening the time from the suburbs to the center of the city.

A through schedule is operated from the Exposition mills to the cemetery on the Marietta and Decatur street lines, which are double-tracked the whole distance.

A through schedule is also operated between Inman Park and West End, via the Edgewood and Whitehall street lines, which are double-tracked from the Richmond and Danville bridge on Edgewood avenue to the East Tennessee bridge on Whitehall street. From this point to the western limit in West End a single track is operated, as from the point where the double track ends on Edgewood avenue to the Inman Park terminus.

Experience demonstrates that either both lines ought to be double-tracked the whole distance, or the cross-town schedules should be abandoned and the arterial well or some central point be made the city terminus for the two lines, each of which should run its own schedules.

Since the cross-town schedule has been in operation between Inman Park and West End, there has not been a single day that it has not been badly disarranged. It does not infrequently happen that three cars are found massed at the point where the single track meets the double track on Whitehall street. There is but one turnout between this point and the West End terminus, and the schedule of every car on the whole line depends upon the absolute accuracy of the connection of all cars due on this turnout. With so long a trip to make and so many cars, it is almost impossible to make this meeting with any degree of regularity, and when one car, through accident or delay, gets behind, the whole schedule is thrown out.

Very few people take advantage of the cross-town schedule, while hundreds are delayed every day by the disarrangement of the schedule.

It will be well for the Consolidated company to consider this matter. Of course the company is anxious to serve the public to the best advantage, and it is to its interest to do so. Atlanta does not possess a better citizen than President Hunt, and the affairs of the company could not be placed in more responsible hands. He has never taken hold of any enterprise that he did not push to success, and he will make such a record with the Consolidated company if he is given a chance.

It does well to call attention to these little shortcomings every once in a while in order that they may be remedied, thus benefiting the company as well as the people.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE SUPREME COURT of North Carolina holds that a railroad company becomes liable for punitive damages in wilfully failing to stop for passengers at a regular station and cannot escape liability on the ground that there was not sufficient room in the train if it appeared that by reasonable diligence it might have provided extra cars.

In 1883 a London business man made over his business to his wife. Five years later she obtained a divorce on the ground of cruelty. The husband was very poor and finally came to the almshouse. A London judge has decided that the wife must pay a weekly sum for the support of the husband. Proof was offered that she had built up the business unaided and that it was worse than nothing when it came into her hands.

Too Many Editors.

He thought he'd let them run the town—an idle dream. If they would only let him run the new-established paper.

But in that town, I grieve to say, with debtors and with creditors, He soon discovered that there were nine hundred natural editors!

And by one they came around and cut a mighty caper, And by all they killed the town by editing the paper.

Mr. S. E. Austin, the new editor of The Fort Valley Leader, is doing excellent work on that paper. The Leader shows great improvement.

ESPECIALLY GREAT TALKERS. Let the words be said every time the hill, We'll be very happy still, But it seems that very few Can be "still" and happy, too!

The American Times-Recorder is among the papers "that continue to improve." Americans is doubtless proud of its handsome newspaper.

NOT TIME AHEAD OF HIM. Editor—They say that Jones is doing.

Foreman—Yes, and he owes you $5.

Editor—I know it, but he's welcome to it. He'll need it in the next world to buy ice with.

You never see this announcement: "The editor has retired from business." It always happens that business retires from the editor.

Says The Waynesboro Farmer's Friend: "If the man who was sitting that every time the hill and blew he would spread a mosquito net over his yard to keep his dirt from blowing over in his neighbor's yard, was in this town now he would find it difficult to hold his shirt."

"The golden autumn is at hand, We see it in the trees Bedecked with many a tinted leaf, We feel it in the breeze That chills, and yet invigorates, And makes one think of wraps and grates."

"The chestnut drops upon the ground, The cane is very sweet, The corn is waving so abundantly, And everything seems new."

For autumn verses, writ by one Who loves the season just begun.

"And soon, no doubt, we'll hear the cry: 'We've done the best we could To give you news.' 'The getting cold; Bring us that load of wood, or, And we'll have that load of wood, or, But know that lovely autumn's here.'"

The Carrollton Times tells of an editor "who has taken a residence in the city. We also heard that he will take almost anything he can get, but the above is the largest haul made up to date.

The Farmers' Friend is the name of a new weekly which has made its appearance at Waynesboro. Mr. O. R. Laster is editor and proprietor, and it is a very readable newspaper.

GOVERNOR HILL IN THE SENATE. Opinion of Senator Voorhees on New York's New Senator.

From an interview with Senator Voorhees. People who imagine that David B. Hill will be lost sight of in the senate are going to find themselves mistaken. I am not given to making exaggerated statements and I have had sufficient experience, I think, to judge men with some degree of accuracy.

Governor Hill has the ability to take his place in the front rank of the senate the first day he takes his seat as a member of that body. In my judgment he is the most accomplished statesman this country has produced in forty years. He is the equal of the great Tilden in his prime and possesses an infinitely greater degree of courage. If Mr. Tilden had had Hill's courage in 1876 he would have achieved the presidency. Mr. Hill is a close student and a keen observer. There is nothing superficial about him. He is a strong partisan because he believes that the principles laid down by Jefferson and Madison and Jackson are eternally right. He is too broad to confine himself to one party.

Hill's speech at the unveiling of the monument to poor Grady was a masterpiece, and he delivered a speech of three-quarters of an hour at a banquet in Atlanta that, if it had been delivered on the floor of the senate, would have made him an author. I am not given to prophecy, but I predict for Governor Hill a great future. He will certainly make his mark in the senate.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

BILL BRICE'S NEW BOOK. DENVER, Col., November 10, 1891.—Editor CONSTITUTION: Where can I get a copy of Bill Brice's writings in book form? Yours truly,

THE CONSTITUTION job office has in press a volume of about three hundred and sixty pages, a striking and valuable work, containing the cream of all of Bill Brice's writings. The book will be out about December 1st, and will be hand-somely bound in cloth and leather. It is issued to meet a popular demand and will be widely sold as a Christmas book. The price is $1.00, and one hundred and fifty copies have been ordered. The price is $1.00, and one hundred and fifty copies have been ordered.

A Card from Colonel Cortop. EDITOR CONSTITUTION:—In your issue of the 12th inst. the person known as C. Cortop, Ga., suggests Colonel W. L. Peck as good gubernatorial timber. Colonel Peck is a good man and we are particular friends. The object of this card is not, therefore, to offer one word of opposition to the suggestion, but to correct the wrong impression which might be created by that portion of the gentleman's card which alludes to Colonel Peck's prediction of the result of the coming election.

"A man, too, of superior business qualifications and of a high character," says the card. The card is a card of recommendation, handed over by his predecessor in office, so that not a single word is said about the result of the coming election. Now, then, the writer of this card is the only predecessor Colonel Peck has ever had as president of the state exchange. On the 24th day of January, 1890, he tendered his resignation as president of the state exchange, and on the 26th day of the same month—the day his resignation was to take effect—he turned over to Colonel W. L. Peck, his successor in office, the entire unpaid capital stock paid in to date, consisting of $65,193.79 in cash and $132.50 in notes. A certified statement of the banks in which this money was deposited was turned over by him to Colonel Peck, which even dispensed with the tediousness of counting the cash. If, therefore, any "tangents" ever existed, it was after Colonel Peck's predecessor had stepped down and out. Respectfully,

Ex-President Farmers' Alliance Exchange of Georgia.

THE STATE SELECTED.

For the New Waterworks' Big Reservoir.

THE GREEN LAND IS BOUGHT.

And the Condemnation of Adjacent Property Provided For—The Bonds to Be Issued.

The new waterworks are rapidly becoming a reality. They are now almost in sight. And the water board, waterworks committee and the mayor are working without rest to give Atlanta that which she needs above all things.

Every day the new supply comes a step nearer adoption.

The board of water commissioners convened yesterday morning to conclude its work in selecting a site for the reservoir. The full board was present, as was Mayor Hemphill and Mr. Hutchison, chairman of the waterworks committee.

The three sites which have been suggested and considered by the board were discussed at length. The board, after a lengthy investigation, concluded that the Green site was the most suitable one, and decided to recommend to the general council its purchase.

A paper containing the facts, together with all the information in the possession of the board, was prepared and signed by the water board and the water committee and the mayor. Then Secretary Terry was instructed to prepare a letter to the general council recapitulating the work of the board.

During the session of the general council yesterday afternoon the entire work was entered on the minutes. Mr. Erwin, the president, presiding in his hand a roll of manuscript. The rules were suspended and the board was given the floor.

The papers were passed up to Clerk Woodward, who read them. First came Mr. Terry's letter. It was:

ATLANTA, Ga., November 6, 1891.—The Honorable Mayor and Council—Gentlemen:

At a call meeting of the board of water commissioners, held today at 10 o'clock, the following resolution by Commissioner Hiller was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That a report be made to the mayor and council that, after thorough investigation, the board is of opinion that either the two sites for the second pumping station and reservoir, known as the Dr. Green and the Ellsworth sites respectively, is eligible and suitable for the purpose, and that we recommend council that full and final authority be vested in a committee of council of this body to negotiate with the owners of these two properties and to close a trade with either of them, as may be found advantageous. Respectfully, GEORGE W. DEANE, JR., Secretary.

Then came the report and recommendation, which read:

ATLANTA, Ga., November 14, 1891.—Honorable Mayor and Council City of Atlanta—Gentlemen: Your joint committee, consisting of the board of water commissioners and the finance committee, to whom was referred the two propositions for the purchase of reservoir sites and pumping stations, beg leave to report that the best offers we can obtain from the owners of the two competing sites are, that the owner of the Ellsworth site will not take pay in the 4 per cent currency bonds, but will take the new 4 per cent gold bonds at par, if authorized to be issued at the coming election. The owners of the Dr. Green site will take the twenty-five dollar gold bonds at par, if authorized to be issued at the coming election. The owners of the Dr. Green site will take the 4 per cent currency bonds at par in full for their property. We will thus pay for the Ellsworth site $75,000, and for the Dr. Green site $100,000, making a total of $175,000. We estimate that $50,000 will more than pay all the condemnation money on the two lots. We also believe, with the original options and maps on which we have acted, and we append hereto a schedule of the different lots and divisions, and the names of the engineer to mark in red ink on the map or diagram the boundaries of the land to be acquired, except as noted below. The lots to be acquired are to be condemned with a X mark; those on which we have options, with the letter O. The lots in red ink on all other maps within the city limits are to be condemned with a Y mark. The following are the parties owning land comprising what is known as the Dr. Green site, and the Ellsworth site: Dr. H. H. Green, E. C. Kontz and W. C. Horton, C. W. Hanneit, and E. C. Kontz. ized by previous legislation. This, too, was adopted.

The Old Works. Mr. Rice, chairman of the finance committee, presented a resolution transferring $4,000 from the sewer funds to the waterworks fund.

"That money is needed," said Mr. Rice, "to pay for the extra work done in bringing Pool's branch into the waterworks."

Mr. Hendrix objected to diminishing the sewer funds and asserted that sewer work would be held back by Mr. Rice during the summer. Mr. Rice denied that he had held the work back.

"We have," he said, "only $2,138 in the waterworks fund, and must have the money to pay these bills."

Two thousand dollars was taken from the contingent and given to the waterworks.

HERE AND THERE.

The new club building in Chattanooga is one of the finest in the south. It is about completed, and when finished will be an elegant affair. It is a very handsome building, four stories high, and will be used entirely by the club, except two nice stores on the first floor.

Mr. John L. Divine, one of the oldest and best citizens of Chattanooga, tells the following good deed done him when a boy by Major Campbell Wallace, of Atlanta. Says Mr. Divine: "I was an orphan, and when a young boy not grown was apprenticed to a tailor by name of Alexander, at Maryville, Tenn. I did not get up soon enough to suit my boss, and locked the upstairs room door where I slept so Alexander could not get to me. This made him very mad, and he informed me when I came down he would whip me. I made up my mind I would not take it. So as I went down stairs I kicked out one of the balusters and concealed it under my coat, and when Alexander commenced on me with the hickory I let in on him with the baluster, and I got decidedly the best of the fight. He lamed me for it, and I had to pay $300 to settle it. The truth is I don't believe I would have got it settled but for Major Campbell Wallace, who then lived in Maryville and did business in Knoxville. He made the settlement for me and got six months' time for me to pay it. He endorsed my note. I went to work for the major and paid it all up."

Continuing Mr. Divine said: "After the war I was living in Chattanooga. I had accumulated considerable property before the war in land and negroes, and after losing sixty-nine negroes I had enough left to give one a good start, and in 1868 I wrote to Major Wallace if he would come to Chattanooga and pick out any piece of property worth not more than $10,000 I would purchase it for him. The major thanked me very kindly for my offer, but he never came for it."

"I feel that the favor he did me in my young days was the turning point in my life, and I will never forget his kindness," Mr. Divine is now one of the wealthiest citizens of Chattanooga.

The employees of the Western and Atlantic railroad sent a committee of the employees to Major McCollum last week with the offer of one day's work to be donated by every employee on the line to aid the road in trying to capture the miscreants who have been trying to wreck the trains on the road. Major McCollum expressed his great gratification at the offer, but declined it, saying the road would not hesitate to expend any sum needed to capture the villains.

The committee then said they would give the road their hearty co-operation, as they were deeply interested in bringing the dastardly deed to justice. It will not be safe for one of them to be caught on the Western and Atlantic, and we hope they will be.

A leading planter in Georgia, and a good all-around man, said the other day: "I don't take any stock in these resolutions and kind of semi-official talk about curtailing the area planted in cotton. It is all bluff, and does more harm than good. There are enough men enough here, if they thought there was going to be any curtailing of the crop, to double up and make more cotton than they ever did."

The right thing to do is for our farmers to look out for some other crop to take the place of cotton. Try tobacco, hay, stock, anything but cotton, but plant some of that. There is no money in cotton at the present prices. There is no money in any crop that costs a third of its value to gather it, and more than two-thirds of its value to make it and market it."

This is a sensible man, and what he says is true. Why not try ramie? It is the coming fiber plant, and can be grown as well in Georgia as anywhere in the south. Get in on the ramie plant.

The Georgia Pacific railroad ran behind over eight hundred thousand dollars last year, and it will not make any increase this year, and never will. The slackest twisted management and the most unaccommodating schedule are the chief causes. One of the officials of the road told one of the citizens along the line a few days ago that they did not care a d—n for local passengers—if they did not want to ride on the schedule that had been fixed they could walk. This kind of talk is calculated to make warm friends for the road.

Nobody will be surprised at the collapse of Billy Emerson's minstrels. Emerson himself is a clever minstrel man—a sort of a back number, it is true, but still clever—but he is about the last man to be at the head of a company. I never had much faith in Jack Haverly's name being connected with the enterprise. Haverly may have had an interest in the show, but I doubt very much if he ever had anything to do with the active management of the show.

Two facts prove that: First, that the name of somebody besides Haverly was known in connection with the show; second, that the show was allowed to collapse. Nobody need sympathize with Emerson, but I hope Manager Kleibacher will get out of it all right.

Another sweet little lassie has come to gladden THE CONSTITUTION household. From Augusta the news comes, and the happy father in this particular instance is Ed Barrett. That little one will be the joy to those who love her best that the other CONSTITUTION babies have been and are, and is wishing every happiness to her parents; and that she is heartily welcomed to THE CONSTITUTION fold, goes without saying. Health and happiness to little Miss Barrett!

Everybody who knows Dan Mullaney will be glad to know of his connection with the Western and Atlantic. During his connection with the Queen and Crescent for several years, Dan has been often in Atlanta and has very many friends here. Though he will be farther from us in Jacksonville than he has been since he has made Chattanooga his headquarters, he will be closer to Atlanta as general traveling passenger agent of the Western and Atlantic than as an employee of the Queen and Crescent—which is the state's gain.

State Senator Tom Eason, of the second senatorial district, is in the city on business with the governor. He is always warmly welcomed to Atlanta, where he has made many warm friends. Senator Eason is one of the most popular of his district, and was one of the soundest members of the general assembly.

Judge Hopkins is something of a letter writer himself!

A PRELIMINARY BRUSH DESCRIBED.

IT WAS NOT DIRECTED AGAINST NELSON,

But Against the Political Methods Resorted to by His Supporters to Secure His Election.

MACON, Ga., November 16.—[Special.]—It now develops that the recent convention of the Episcopal church here, in which Mr. Nelson was elected bishop, was quite an interesting one.

Indeed, the inside history of the convention is just coming to light, and an interesting chapter it makes.

There were some scenes in the convention that are being talked about quite freely by the members of the church now.

The first was in the meeting of the clergy. Rev. Mr. Nelson's name had been proposed and he was being discussed. Rev. Mr. White, of Savannah, was asked about Mr. Nelson.

He stated that he had known him for years; he was a good man, but not a particularly fine preacher. Indeed, his most intimate friends had never held that he was.

In reply to this, Rev. Mr. Barrett, of Atlanta, took the floor and stated, in a rather jocular vein, that he had known Mr. White for many years. He had once been his roommate, and that he was possessed of a faculty of criticizing everybody. He stated that often he had gone to sleep at night listening to Mr. White criticizing persons, and that it was a habit with him.

Then Mr. White took the floor to reply, and the others picked up their ears, for they expected a warm discussion. Mr. White told of Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, coming to him and asking his opinion of two clergymen in the church. One was Rev. Mr. Jackson, of Virginia, whom he pronounced a most excellent man. The other was Rev. Mr. Barrett, who he said he had told the bishop he had known him for many years, but had never known him to hold to the same opinion on any one subject for twenty-four hours.

Mr. Barrett made no reply to this, and the controversy ended.

Mr. Williams's Objection.

The most interesting part of the proceedings of the convention was the objection of Mr. Williams, of Augusta, and others objected to making the election of Mr. Nelson unanimous.

The story of the proceedings and Mr. Williams's reasons for his objections was told in detail today by one of the friends of the Augusta clergyman who thinks Mr. Williams's position in the matter has been misrepresented by certain parties.

"The ballot had been taken showing Mr. Nelson to have been elected," said he, "when Rev. T. J. Pond, of J. P. Pond, of Atlanta, moved to have it unanimous. Mr. Williams arose and requested that the motion be withdrawn, stating that there were quite a number present besides himself who would be compelled to oppose it. Mr. Pond at first persisted, when objections were heard from many of the clergy. Rev. Mr. Dodge, of St. Simons, took the floor and stated to Mr. Pond that it would be best to withdraw the motion. If it was not withdrawn he would be one who would vote against it. Mr. Pond then withdrew it.

"When Mr. Williams took the floor and objected he turned to Mr. Z. D. Harrison and announced that if any one desired to know he would give the reasons for his objection. Apparently no one desired to know. The fact is, every one knew, although the public apparently is still in ignorance of Mr. Williams's motive for his objection. The convention knew that it was not an objection to Mr. Nelson and was not intended to be construed as such, for he distinctly stated that he would sign Mr. Nelson's credentials but could not add his vote to make the election unanimous. Those present all knew the objection was to the method employed to elect him—to the action of Mr. Z. D. Harrison, of Atlanta, and Rev. William C. Hunter, of Columbus, the secretary and chairman of the standing committee. Such political scheming as they resorted to to elect Mr. Nelson could not be endorsed by some members of the church and convention. By their action they had placed the church in an embarrassing position. They had selected a man they wanted for bishop; they had gone to South Bethlehem to see him, and had practically promised that if he would accept he would be elected.

"Everybody read what was printed in THE CONSTITUTION about their visit to Mr. Nelson. That statement was sent throughout the diocese. Their action in the matter practically committed the convention.

"In the first place, it compromised the convention. After what appeared in the newspapers from these gentlemen it would have been a reflection upon Mr. Nelson not to have elected him. They forestalled the action of the convention, and they made unwarranted use of the name of the standing committee.

"If, perhaps, has been intimated that Mr. Williams wanted to be bishop himself. He did some months ago, but long before this last convention met he positively declined to allow the use of his name. I heard him say months ago that he did not want to be bishop now, for he knew there were those in the church who were opposed to him, and under the circumstances he thought it best to remain where he was. However, I am sure he could have been elected at the convention here had he only said the word. There were many delegates who were for him and did not attend when they were informed by him that he would not allow the use of his name.

"No, Mr. Williams was not opposed to Mr. Nelson. He believes him to be a good man, and I understand he has written him, begging that he accept Mr. Williams's objection to making the election unanimous was the only way he had of condemning the methods pursued in electing him.

"Do you know there was not a recommendation of any kind read before the laymen? All they knew about Mr. Nelson was what Mr. Harrison told them.

"It was rumored about after the election that one of the Atlanta delegates' zeal in the matter was due to the fact that he wanted a bishop who would certainly live in Atlanta. In order that the investment of the church funds would not be removed. There is something like forty thousand dollars of funds."

"I hope," he continued, "that Mr. Nelson will accept. I believe every member of the church in the state would be glad to have him accept, but a large majority condemn the political methods of his leading advocates."

A SLICK MAIL ROBBER

One of the Notorious Trio Captured in Atlanta

ESCAPES FROM THE NASHVILLE JAIL.

THE METHOD A BOLD AND COOL ONE—THE

Sheriff Offers a Hundred Dollars Out of His Own Pocket for His Arrest.

Thomas C. Boalan, alias Clayton, alias Bacon, is once more at liberty. The accused mail robber, with a national notoriety, effected his escape from the Nashville jail yesterday afternoon.

His plan was concocted and executed in the same bold, daring, shrewd way that has characterized the many robberies with which he is charged.

After a careful and hard search the badly wanted man was caught a few days ago in Atlanta.

When everything seemed final for his conviction, he once more gained his freedom and now the search must be renewed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., November 16.—[Special.] After six days in the Nashville jail Thomas C. Boalan alias Clayton made his escape this afternoon.

His scheme was a bold one, deliberately planned and coolly executed.

At 5 o'clock the negro cook and a trusty named Jim Streeter took the prisoners' supper the second floor of the jail. They locked themselves in, removed the key from the lock and began dishing out the supper to the inmates. Boalan, who was at large on the second floor with the other prisoners, stepped up to the cook and said:

"Give me the key, the clerk is at the door and wants to get in."

Never suspecting but that Boalan was telling the truth, the negro handed him the key. Boalan walked quietly to the door, unlocked it, opened it, stepped out, and closing it, noiselessly bounded down the steps which led directly to the street entrance. The door here was not fastened, and, quickly throwing it open, he sprang out and held the door closed until he had succeeded in opening the gate which was simply thrown by a lever.

Boalan darted down Front street towards Broad and escaped. He had reached the street before the cook noticed his absence, and when the alarm was given, the first ones to reach the street saw Boalan nearly six hundred yards away and running for dear life.

Jim Streeter, the negro trusty, bounded down the stairs as soon as he realized Boalan's escape and gave chase.

He is probably still chasing him, as he has to date forgotten to return. It is thought he is in collusion with Boalan.

At 5 o'clock, the clerk, who was in the office at the time of the escape and Boalan had to pass by the open door. This he did so quietly that he knew nothing of the escape until the cook gave the alarm.

Sheriff Hill says he would rather have given $1,000 than have Boalan escape and personally he has offered $100 reward. Boalan is the only one who ever escaped from the Nashville jail. He is of steel and mob proof. It is said that Boalan was to have been removed to a separate individual cell tomorrow.

Boalan had been in jail since last Tuesday. He, with Charles Hubbard, alias Charley Diamond, and J. K. Stratton, was arrested at the Folsom house in Atlanta November 2d, inspectors Williams and Holmes making the arrest. He was one of the gang of mail robbers who has led the government officers such a chase since August, 1890. Henry Armstrong is another member of the gang which is thought has stolen forty or fifty thousand dollars in the past year. Their method was to knock the lock off a street box, have a key fitted and make deductions on other boxes. Keys were altered so as to be made collectible.

The charge against Boalan here was robbing the mail box at the corner of Church and Market streets of letters containing the next day's mail. He was charged with the robbery of Morris & White, wholesale grocers. One was for $640, payable to an Indianapolis firm, which he altered and collected. The other was for $380, payable to Chicago. This Boalan sent the bank by a district messenger boy, but the teller detected the alteration. An attempt was made to capture Boalan but he caught on and escaped. This occurred in September.

WILL LEAVE TONIGHT.

Mr. Harrison and Mr. Hunter Go To Notify Mr. Nelson of His Election as Bishop.

Mr. Z. D. Harrison and Rev. W. C. Hunter will probably leave for South Bethlehem, Pa., to notify Bishop-elect Nelson of his election.

Mr. Harrison had not fully decided yesterday whether he would leave tonight or not, but it is more than likely that he will.

It is now thought that Mr. Nelson will accept the bishopric.

Mr. Thomas Gamble, who is to be city editor of the resuscitated TAVANNAH TIMES, was at Mr. Nelson's home on the day of the election, and saw Mr. Nelson after he received the news of his election. Of course Dr. Nelson did not say whether he would accept or not, but Mr. Gamble believed from what he saw that Mr. Nelson would accept. Where he is Dr. Nelson is doing a great work. His parish is the leading one in South Bethlehem, and besides this Dr. Nelson is in charge of three churches and is chaplain of St. Luke's hospital. His parish has 475 communicants, but he has about 2,000 Episcopalians in his charge. He has been in his present parish for nine years and is greatly loved by the people there. He is of fine presence, affable manners, and magnificent constitution, standing six feet high. He has a lovely home, and his church is a stately structure erected two years ago at a cost of $70,000. Dr. Nelson was married to a Maryland lady of rare accomplishments and culture several years ago, but has no children. He now receives $2 a salary. He is a member of the Georgia Episcopal Society, which will be $4,000 with $10,000 life insurance.

Georgia Patents.—The following is a complete list of patents granted to citizens of Georgia for the week just passed, and is especially reported for THE CONSTITUTION by A. A. Wood & Son, solicitors of American and foreign patents, Atlanta, Ga.: Wesley W. Windham, Atlanta, Ga., car coupling; Sigmund Landauer, Atlanta, Ga., car coupling; William J. Eason, Woodbury, Ga., planter and fertilizer distributor.

This issue comprises 508 patents, 46 of which are of citizens of foreign countries.

The Ladies' Auxiliary.—The ladies of the Young Men's Christian Association Auxiliary will meet at the association parlors Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It will be for important business and all are requested to be present.

Well Understood.

It is well understood by reliable dealers that Dr. Price's Delicious Flavoring Extracts have constituted for years past the standard flavors in all the markets of this country. That they are regarded as among the most successful and creditable products and are unquestionably, if the opinion of the best class of consumers is worthy of acceptance, the purest, strongest and finest flavoring extracts in the world.

THE JUDGE'S REPLY

To Rev. Sam Small's Challenge to Debate

THE PENDING LIQUOR QUESTION.

It is a Letter Full of Wisdom and Good Advice—The Registration Going On.

Judge Hopkins sent his reply to Sam Small's letter yesterday morning.

That reply should be read by every citizen of Atlanta.

It is a letter characteristic of the man. Tensely and without wasting a word, Judge Hopkins goes at the very root of the present campaign and the issues—fancied and real. His reasons for opposing agitation will be endorsed by everybody who has the real good of Atlanta at heart.

Here is Judge Hopkins's letter. Read it!

ATLANTA, Ga., November 16, 1891.—Rev. Sam W. Small—My Dear Sir: Your communication of the 14th instant addressed to me as "Chairman of the committee of one hundred," has been received. It is in your proposition a joint discussion of the issues of the present city campaign, and I state that the action of the committee of one hundred "clearly defines the liquor issue as the only question in the canvass and election."

Yon proposition is, then, that you and I should meet in joint debate and discuss the "liquor question" before the people of Atlanta. In respectfully declining I must be permitted to state my position in reference to the matter referred to.

First, allow me to state, that all my life I have been against barrooms and the sale and improper use of intoxicating liquors. If I had the power, I would lift the curse in all its forms from my fellowmen. This view so long entertained, and not likely to be changed, but, in bitter disappointment, I have more than once been taught that I was not to have my way about it. Not despairing, but hoping still, I long ago settled down into the belief that if I could not drive it out, and away, the next best thing to do was to restrain and control it as far as might be.

The "liquor question" is one that always arouses passion, and there is no subject that will produce more strife and bitterness. We have had two such experiences in Atlanta. At the close of the first, liquor was voted out; at the close of the second, it was voted back. The dissensions then produced were public calamities.

I am not supported by public sentiment, cannot be successfully executed. When it relates to a matter entering into the every-day life of a people, and directly affects every one, it cannot be satisfactorily adjusted if it is approved by only a small majority of the people. That was our condition in prohibition time. It was a constant struggle in the courts to prevent violations of the law. The liquor interest was strong enough to prevail and to make the law a dead letter. It broke it down. There is no disguising the fact that, at present, prohibition in Atlanta is impossible. First, because in all probability a majority could not be had to adopt it; and secondly, if a majority could be had, the condition is such as to render its efficient enforcement impossible. The fruitless attempt to enforce an obnoxious law always carries with it a train of evils that are greatly to be deplored.

I have never known in Atlanta greater need of united effort, on the part of her people, than now. Her marvelous growth has been such as to require miles upon miles of paved streets, sidewalks, and other improvements. These things are imperatively demanded. These public works have to be carried on and accomplished. The burthen imposed by them on the people will be great. All things to a trial period in our history. We are putting off the old and putting on the new. It comes upon us at an unpropitious time. We are but just emerging from a time of great general depression. Atlanta is sorely stricken. Not in most other cities, perhaps, but still she has suffered greatly. So it is that, when least able to carry it, the city is subjected to an unusual burthen. There is only one way to carry it—army and united effort are indispensable. It is no time for dissension, and, least of all, such dissension as the "liquor question" brings.

Such being the condition, a movement was started to list a citizen's ticket for mayor. Men who were opposed to a present agitation of the liquor question, and who could be relied on to administer the affairs of the city honestly, efficiently and economically. With that movement I sympathized, and I am glad to see it. A committee of fifteen from the fourth ward, the committee of one hundred did me the honor of calling me to preside over its deliberations. In acknowledging this made the remarks you refer to, I spoke for the peace and unity of the city. I spoke for the people and the public service. One thing that greatly pleased me was the fact that during that meeting no reflection was cast upon any one, and no new divisions were made. It is my purpose, in spirit and in action, so far as I know, or could see, it was a purely business meeting, seeking to promote the public interest. As such I participated in it. I was made chairman of the executive committee, but it is my purpose to retire from it, and I so informed the gentlemen before leaving the room at the close of the meeting. I shall retire because it is not in my line of business, and I have no time to devote to it. I believe in the liquor question, but it is not my business, and therefore I desire its success. That I was chairman of the committee of one hundred does not make me in any sense a representative of it. It is a representative of the people. I am for peace, harmony and resolution for Atlanta. I do not clearly see my way to either peace or harmony, by accepting your invitation to a joint discussion of the liquor question. On the contrary, I see, as the inevitable and immediate result of such a course, the beginning of a strife that would alienate friends, divide our people, and impede our progress. The course I pursue I deem wisest at present in dealing with the whiskey evil. It seems to me to be all that can be accomplished now. I think it impertinent to attempt more under existing circumstances.

You are quite right in supposing that I have for the body you represent the respect which your characters and past services for good, in public and private, merit. You have at your back some of the best men in Atlanta, and you cannot more highly esteem them than I do. No more difference of opinion can lessen my regard for them. With me their great personal worth, and the courage with which they adhere to what they think is right, inspire them half reverence. I in all kinds, next, believe to be the unwise course they pursue. I highly appreciate the complimentary terms in which you speak of me. It seems to me to be all that can be accomplished now. I think it impertinent to attempt more under existing circumstances. Please accept assurance of my personal regard, and believe me to be very truly yours,

JOHN L. HOPKINS.

THE BRIDGE STAYS

Over Hunter Street at the Atlanta University,
SO THE GENERAL COUNCIL SAYS.

The Body Meets in Regular Session and Authorizes the New Fire Building. Petitions and Resolutions.

Mr. Murphy, the junior member from the fourth ward, was the only absentee during the session of the general council yesterday afternoon.

The session opened brightly and briskly, but when it closed the members were weary and worn out.

Soon after the roll call had been finished the rules were suspended and the floor was given to Mr. Murphy. Judge Hopkins was present to represent the Atlanta University relative to the removal of the bridge over Hunter street.

He recounted the facts connected with the construction of the bridge and declared that its removal would be a great injury.

"Back in '72, when that bridge was built," said the judge, "an agreement was entered into between the city and the university, and now the city seeks to destroy that agreement. The university allowed the city to extend Hunter street through its grounds and then built the bridge over the cat, reserving that right. Now the bridge is worn and the university has made a contract for a new bridge—an iron one. But you have ordered the old bridge removed and declared that another should not be erected. In view of the original contract that is wholly wrong, and I think you should reconsider your action. The noise complained of will not exist after the new bridge goes up, and it will be a structure satisfactory to every one."

"I move," said Mr. Lambert, "to reconsider our former action. I have investigated the matter fully and I find no complaint against the bridge. I think we should grant the petition."

"As chairman of the bridge committee," said Mr. Turner, "I desire to say that we had two petitions before us. One was against the bridge declaring it a nuisance. For my part I have no objection to the bridge and shall vote for the reconsideration."

The former action was reconsidered and the matter was recommitted to the bridge committee.

Another Street Car Line.
The Atlanta, Hapeville and Manchester railway line presented a petition for permission to construct a line through the waterworks property. With the petition was a paper conveying the consent of the water board, that body having investigated the matter. The petition was granted.

To Go Underground.

W. T. Gentry, manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, asked permission to erect a three-story building, corner Pryor and Mitchell streets, to be used as a telephone exchange, and to construct underground conduits on Mitchell street from Pryor to Forsyth street.

Whitehall from Garnett to Peachtree. Hunter from Pryor to Broad. Alabama from Lynch to Peachtree. Decatur from Lynch to Peachtree. Marietta from Peachtree to Forsyth.

Mr. Gentry stated that his company wanted to begin work at once as it would require quite a time to put the work underground. The petition was granted, the work to be done under the supervision of the board of electrical control and in conformity with the city laws.

The Edison Electric Light Company was given permission to erect poles and stretch wires along Alabama, Broad, Wall, Pryor, Peachtree, Whitehall, Marietta and Decatur streets in order to supply light and power.

Holding Up Fl. Fas.

The Lord street colored church, through a member, asked the council to exempt the property from sale for sewer assessment charged against it, the church having advertised the church for sale.

"The Catholic church," said Mr. King, "just below and the academy, too, are in the same fix. We can't legally relieve them from the debt. But I have a resolution which will help them."

The resolution directed the withdrawal of the advertisements now pending for the sale of church property, including church lots or parsonages and church school property for taxes, sewer, sidewalk and other street improvements until the further order of the council.

It was adopted.

Twenty-Five Cents a Foot.

The street committee submitted a report upon the petition of Whitehall residents to be paid for the macadam removed from that street when the beign blocks were put down. The report favored compensating the petitioners.

Mr. Rice opposed the report because it established a precedent.

Mr. Hendrix offered a resolution, allowing the property owners 25 cents a foot for the macadam taken from Whitehall street.

"As a matter of equity," he said, "I think they are entitled to it. They paid for the macadam, and if they take it away and use it in another place they should have something for it because they paid for it when it went down, and it is theirs by purchase."

"If you start that," said Mr. Rice, "where will it end? Peachtree, Capitol avenue and Washington street are being improved again they'll all want pay for the old macadam."

"We have secured," said Mr. Sawtell, "legislation which enables us to improve those streets Mr. Rice names. Whitehall wasn't in it. But if those other streets come and ask for pay I shall be with them, because I think like Mr. Hendrix."

Mr. King was with Mr. Hendrix, too.

So was Mr. Broyles.

Mr. Turner advocated the payment of 25 cents a foot, and declared that it was too little.

The resolution granting the petition was adopted.

Billiard Saloons Again.

"I have here," said Mr. Reinhardt, "the report of the committee on Mr. Woodward's billiard saloon ordinance. The ordinance provides that pool and billiard rooms which close at 10 o'clock be required to pay $25 on a table a year instead of the regular license of $50. The committee's report is adverse."

Mr. Woodward argued against the report.

So did Mr. Lambert.

Mr. McBride was with Mr. Woodward.

Mr. Turner favored the report.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The New Engine House.

Mr. Hutchinson, of the board of firemasters, presented a resolution providing that the $4,000 derived from the sale of No. 1 engine house in excess of the $25,000 which went to the purchase of the Maddox & Backer lot on Alabama street, be set aside specially as a nucleus for the building fund for the fire department headquarters.

It was adopted.

Mr. Hutchinson then introduced a resolution instructing the board of firemasters and the finance committee to consider the advisability of selling the book and ladder house to build the fire department headquarters.

It was adopted.

An Old Bill.

A communication was received from the chief of police calling the attention of the council to a bill of Mr. Rich & Bros. for $21,724, for decorating the station house at the exposition opening in 1892.

"That bill was in here a year ago," said Mr. Hendrix, "and we declined to pay it. For what reason I don't know. If we owe the bill let's pay it."

The paper was recommitted with power to act.

The controller's report showed the balance

The fire department committee granted building permits to James Lloyd on the new engine house lot and W. A. Fuller, 139 Marietta street; A. McIlhenny, 145 Tryon street; Peacock & Meyers, Marietta street, and T. G. Hensley, 5 Decatur street.

The finance committee reported $48,043.12 as the amount of warrants drawn since last meeting of the council.

PREACHER VS. SALOONIST.

The Rev. Sam W. Small Sues Thomas A. Minor for Damages.

The Rev. Samuel W. Small has instituted a suit for $5,000 damages against Thomas A. Minor, the Decatur street saloonist, who assaulted him in the barber shop last week.

The declaration was filed late yesterday afternoon by Mr. Frank Arnold in the office of the clerk of the city court. The document is so blurred and blotched as to be well nigh illegible. Indeed, the copywriter's report who examined it had to call in an expert to assist him in deciphering it. Mr. Arnold's clerk was so impatient to file the paper before the office closed that he did not wait for the link to dry.

Dr. Holliday remarked, "This is rather a wet document under the circumstances."

The declaration says: "On the 12th day of November, 1891, the defendant, Thomas A. Minor, a man of large physique and great physical strength, did maliciously and without cause, assault and beat your petitioner, who is a minister of the gospel, of slight stature and physically infirm, by approaching your petitioner in a barber shop, seizing him by the throat with one hand, while he beat him in the face with the other, and threatening him with a razor in his right hand. Said defendant continued to beat said petitioner with his fists, and finally by standers interfered and by force pulled off the defendant."

"But, before said petitioner was out of reach of the said defendant, he maliciously and viciously kicked at your petitioner with one of his heavy-shoed feet and struck him upon the lower lip, severely cutting it and entirely knocking out one of petitioner's teeth, causing him great pain and suffering."

The declaration goes on: "The said assault of the said defendant upon said petitioner caused his clothing to be much soiled and otherwise injured, and his spectacles to be broken to pieces, to the damage of $50."

It further shows that Minor is a saloon keeper; that he was not known to the petitioner. The petitioner, the paper goes on to relate, is a preacher of the Methodist church, and is largely interested in evangelical and religious work, and under the control of the American Mission Board. "To have been beaten by a person of Minor's stamp and character is mortifying in the extreme, and has entailed upon petitioner great mental anguish."

THE DIRECTORS MEET.

The Business of the New Drummer's Bank Is Very Satisfactory.

The board of directors of the Commercial Travelers' Savings bank held a full meeting in their temporary quarters, Hon. A. L. Kontz's office, yesterday afternoon.

It was found that everything was working smoothly in connection with the new bank and that prospects are most gratifying. The first installment is coming in and will soon be paid in full. The second installment will be due on December 12th. The subscription books will be left open until December 1st.

About three hundred and sixty thousand dollars have already been received in subscriptions to the stock.

The directors have not yet determined what will be the limit of the stock received. It is likely that will be determined at the next meeting.

Nothing has been determined yet about the permanent location of the bank. Probably a handsome building will be erected.

THE SYNOD CLOSURES

Georgia's Presbyterians End a Successful Convention.

AN ADDRESS BY DR. J. B. SHEARER.

A Case to Test the Organic Law—Report from the South Atlantic University—Resolutions of Thanks Adopted.

The synod of Georgia, after four days of session, closed yesterday at 3 o'clock.

It was, all things considered, a memorable and successful convention.

It was the largest assemblage of synod delegates ever held by the Georgia Presbyterians. A general spirit of enthusiasm pervaded the whole body, and the policy of the meeting was strongly for enterprise and vigorous work in all departments of the church's work.

The members of the board of regents of the proposed South Atlantic university reported. One meeting of the board had occurred since the last synod, at which bids were received by various places for the location of the new institution.

Spartanburg, S. C., Augusta and LaGrange, Ga., and other places, made flattering offers, but no site had been selected.

The South Atlantic university is the proposed great university which the Presbyterians of the southeastern states expect to found. It will be of superior grade to the best educational institutions now existing in this section, but will not conflict with the other colleges of the church in the south.

Dr. J. B. Shearer, president of Davidson college, made a very strong speech on the need of under-grade schools and academies, all over the south, under control of the Presbyterian church. He urged that the establishment of a large number of such would be a twofold benefit. Said he:

"First, they would act as steady feeders to the colleges and universities already existing. They would also bring together and group well in the rural regions of education a large number of young men, who would eventually enter the higher grade schools to prepare for the ministry. Secondly, such schools, if open to both sexes, would prove invaluable auxiliaries to the ministers in their various fields of work. Preachers are everywhere, teachers, and their effectiveness would doubtless be increased a hundred fold if the ministry was backed by a widespread system of schools under church government and in which the Bible would be used as a text-book."

The committee on synodical evangelization was partly reorganized. Rev. Mr. Groves, of Decatur resigned as chairman of the committee; Dr. E. H. Barnett was elected a member and installed as chairman, and Dr. F. R. Beattie, of the Columbia Theological seminary, was added to the committee.

Rev. T. M. Lowrie, of Augusta, was elected synodical agent for foreign missions. It is thought he will accept. His office will be a scientific and rigorous course of study. Presbyterian congregation in Georgia in the interests of the foreign missionaries.

Two hours of this session were consumed in debating a point of law. It was the case of J. V. Montgomery and others, of the Flemington church, against the presbytery of Savannah. The case is not an important one, involving only a dispute between the church and one member, but it is of interest for the precedent which will be established by it.

The trouble arising, the matter was referred to the presbytery, as the church session did not have sufficient authority for settling it. But the presbytery also declined to assume original jurisdiction over the case because of the absence of important papers. It then being referred to the synod, the case of Montgomery was sustained, and the presbytery directed to weigh and settle the case.

All the members of the presbytery of Savannah being present, a meeting was called after this action and an appeal was taken to the general assembly.

Unanimous resolutions of thanks were passed by a rising vote for the generous hospitality accorded the delegates in the Decatur homes.

The synod then adjourned sine die to meet in Cartersville next year, November 9th, at 7 o'clock p. m.

A number of the delegates are spending today in Atlanta.

A Train of Cars Filled with Texas Products to Visit Atlanta.

The great state of Texas has adopted a new and novel plan for presenting to the people of the United States the resources of that "Southwestern Empire."

A train of cars filled with the finest Texas products is being hauled through the country from place to place in order that the people may inspect and see for themselves just what Texas produces. The train will be here on the morning of the 23d, and will remain on the side track for two days in order that the people may see it.

Mr. Bruce did not see or hear the engine until it was almost touching his vehicle. He just had to leap out and save his life. The wagon was struck before he jumped, but not before he was thrown to the ground. He was a new man, and the accident was caused by an awkward step.

Dr. Nicholson was called and dressed Mr. Bruce's wounds. No bones were broken, and the gentleman will be out again in a few days. It was a narrow escape. The wagon was torn all to pieces, but the team was uninjured.

Another Accident.

A Richmond and Danville flagman on a freight train while getting on his train last night to go out was knocked down and stunned, but not seriously injured. It was thought at first that he was killed, but after recovering from the shock he got on his train and went on his trip. He was a new man, and the accident was caused by an awkward step.

Dr. Nicholson was called and dressed Mr. Bruce's wounds. No bones were broken, and the gentleman will be out again in a few days. It was a narrow escape. The wagon was torn all to pieces, but the team was uninjured.

A CARD.

The Chrysanthemum Show at the Capitol. Large number of ladies and gentlemen have called my attention to the report in Thursday's CONSTITUTION of the chrysanthemum show at the Capitol. The expressed opinion of the discerning public, and of good judges, was the chrysanthemum, both plant and cut blooms exhibited by the Westview Floral Company, were far superior to all others on exhibition. Now, I cannot see why, in common justice, the finest exhibit should be almost unmentioned when inferior exhibits were lauded so high. The assertion that Mr. Jackson took three-fourths of the premiums at the Piedmont exposition chrysanthemum show was an error. I do not wish to take any credit away from Mr. Jackson, but I want credit given for my share in above exposition. The West View floral company was given twice as many first premiums as any other competitor. In conclusion I am, and as a plant, and told the truth, and would not actually grown by us.

WILL PLAY TONIGHT. FINANCE AND TRADE.

Schaefer and Ives Arrive in Atlanta
Last Night.

TO GIVE EXHIBITIONS OF THEIR SKILL.
A Splendid Evening's Entertainment It
Will Be—Something About the Two Contestants.

The two great billiardists, Ives and Schaefer, the one the champion of America, the other of the world, are in Atlanta.
They arrived in the city at 6:40 o'clock last evening from Chattanooga, where they played an exhibition on Friday and Saturday nights.
This evening they will appear before an Atlanta audience at Concordia dancing hall.
The two men were preceded by their manager, Mr. Charles E. Parker, of Chicago, who came on to make all preliminary arrangements.
Their engagement here has been looked forward to with a great deal of interest by local lovers of the game.

The game tonight will open with 200 points, straight rail, which will, in all probability, last but about twenty minutes.

An ordinary player would hardly finish it in an hour and a half.
Then the two billiardists will start on a 1,200, balk line. Four hundred points will be played each night, and at the close of each evening's play the position of the balls will be marked, and the play resumed just as the contestants left off.

Thursday will decide the winner.
Then will follow fancy shots by both players. These will consist of draws, spreads, drives and masses, which will form an unusually pretty exhibition.

This will conclude an entertainment of about two hours and a half.

Schaefer and Ives will both play in full dress and everything will be conducted in the most pleasing manner.
The present tour of the two billiardists began on November 1st in Chicago, Atlanta, Chattanooga and Nashville are the three southern points on the route. From here Schaefer and Ives will return to Chicago and on December 22d, the former will play Slosson for the championship of the world.

Ives will then challenge the winner for that title.

Who They Are.
Schaefer is undoubtedly the best known knight of the cue living. His professional career dates back to 1873, when he was nineteen years old.

His first game of much prominence was in 1878 in St. Louis. There he engaged in a tournament with Rudolph, Slosson, Dion, McCreary and Gallagher, the foremost billiardists of the world, and gained first prize. Then Slosson and Dion played against himself and Gallagher and he made more points than all three together.

The following year he won the championship of the world in a tournament with the two Dions, Gardner, Rudolph, Sexton, Slosson and Heiser. This was at straight rail.

Then Slosson challenged him for the title and Schaefer made a 1,000 points in runs of 5, 6, 9, 30, 30, while Slosson ran up 41.

In 1883 he won the world's championship at eight-ball balk line. Slosson challenged him in this in 1884 and was easily defeated.

The following year Schaefer crowned his record by winning a similar title at fourteen-ball balk line, with Slosson and Vignaux. There were two ties, but finally Schaefer triumphed.

Last year he played McCreary in San Francisco and in the fourth inning made a run of 3,000 points.

Ives is but twenty-three years of age, but his career is an extremely varied one.

He was at one time a jockey. Then he became a bicyclist, and won the fancy and fast championships of the state of Illinois. Roller skating next attracted his attention, and he won the championship of his state at this.

His first appearance in the billiard world was in 1887, when he was nineteen years of age. He met Slosson in Chicago in a handicap tournament and defeated him. Two years ago Ives played with Schaefer, Slosson, Daly, Heiser and Catton, and came out third. In the same year he participated with the same men and came out second.

He won the championship of America in April last, when Carter succumbed to his skill. On October 25th he made the largest average on record in a match game, fourteen-inch balk line.

THE RAILWAY WORLD.

President H. B. Plant Pays Atlanta a Short Visit.

FLORIDA'S VERY BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

Phosphate, Oranges and the Tourists Will Give the Transportation Lines Plenty of Traffic—Nothing from the Conductors.

Mr. H. B. Plant, the many times millionaire president and principal owner of the Plant railway and steamship lines, arrived in Atlanta yesterday from Montgomery. He traveled in his private car accompanied by Mrs. Plant and his secretary. Mr. Plant has been in the south for four weeks traveling over his several railroads and looking after his various properties. He is now on his way back north. His home is in New York.

Time has silvered his hair, but the years leave scarcely any other imprint of their passing. Mr. Plant is one of the first in the morning at his office on West Twenty-third street and he works steadily at his desk all day. To a Constitution reporter he said last night that he found his railroads in better physical condition than they were last year. They were all satisfactory. He is having an extension built up into the phosphate region of Florida. That state's phosphate mining and manufacturing industry is growing steadily. England is buying in large quantities. Last week a cargo of 2,000 tons was cleared from Port Tampa for London. Mr. Plant stated that he met a number of English capitalists in Florida who are interested in the phosphate beds and all of them had faith in the success of the business.

Some disappointments have been experienced in results but Mr. Plant thinks that these were due to the process of manipulating the phosphate. Changes are being made in the method of manipulating with better results.

Tampa is a convenient port for exporting the ore to Europe.

Fernandina and Savannah are shipping some of it abroad and some of it is coming to Atlanta for manufacture. Tourist travel promises to be heavy this coming winter. Mr. Plant's agents inform him that Florida's beautiful hotels are being prepared to accommodate a rush of guests. Mr. Plant's new and costly hotel at Tampa, which was so highly complimented last winter, will be maintained as one of the most excellent houses in America.

From her orange crop, tourist travel and phosphate mines Florida expects to get a large revenue within the next five months, and get back on her feet.

Mr. Plant will spend today in Augusta and tomorrow in Charleston.

GONE TO ALBANY.

The railroad commissioners left yesterday afternoon for Albany, and they will spend today there looking into the request of the citizens for a union depot. Central, Savannah, Florida and Western, Brunswick and Western, and Columbus Southern officials will be present. Albany's city officials will wait upon the visitors and show them some attractions. Albany is very anxious to get a union depot.

General and Personal.

Mr. Levi Hege, formerly superintendent of the Central, is in the city. His headquarters are now at Louisville. Mr. Hege came down to attend a damage suit against the company. He is a first-class railroad man. Mr. Hege resigned when the Gabbett regime began.

The annual meeting of the Port Royal and Augusta will be held in Augusta tomorrow.

General Manager Green, of the Richmond and Danville, is back from a trip over the entire system.

Mr. D. F. Jack, auditor of the Southern Express Company, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Jack is located in New York. He was formerly division superintendent of the express company at Augusta, and for a time was general manager of the Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West railroad.

Mr. Daniel J. Mullahey has been appointed general traveling passenger agent of the Western and Atlantic with headquarters at Jacksonville.

The East Tennessee has appointed Mr. Dave Hall traveling passenger agent with headquarters at Wilmington, N. C.

ABOUT THE CUSTOM HOUSE.

Matters of Gossip Gathered from the Various Departments.

The first money for the payment of the condemned Chickamauga land has been received from Washington.

It arrived at the custom house yesterday morning and will be turned over as soon as possible.

Mr. Samuel F. Osburn and Mrs. Mary J. Mercier are the first parties to be paid for their property. The former's land was appraised at $6,720; that of the latter, $3,014, and the money, $9,734, is ready to be transferred.

The rest of the claims will be paid in rapid order from a suit from '83.

The case of the Pendleton Guano Company versus the West Union Telegraph Company occupied the time of the circuit court yesterday. It is a suit for $5,000 for failure to deliver a telegram. The case was not concluded and was continued until today, when a verdict will be reached.

The damage claimed was done in 1885.

The Case Postponed.

The Kensington Land Company will appear in the circuit court on Saturday. It is a suit for a permanent receiver should not be appointed. The case was to have been heard yesterday, but was postponed.

Commissioner John W. Mason, of the internal revenue, left Atlanta for New Orleans yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He spent the morning at the custom house in the office of Colonel Chapman. He expressed himself as well pleased with the local department.

The commissioner will spend considerable time in the Pelican State looking after the sugar business.

To Attend Court.

Colonel Chapman, of the local revenue department, left yesterday afternoon for Florida, accompanied by Captain John Ware and others. They will be gone for some time, attending court in that state.

"Gods a right blessing fargyle." It is a prayer that the duke of Argyle, in sympathy with the tramps that would their way along the byway that passed his estates, had placed along the roadside posts, on which they might scratch their backs, and in grateful acknowledgment of the kindness they used to say, "God bless the duke or Argyle." But had they known of Tetterline, the only absolute specific for Tetters and all skin diseases, the public would never have known of this as a byword.

INTO THE CALDRON, Wherein the Luscious Consomme Is Wont to Be Made.

BILLY EMERSON'S MINSTRELS HAVE GONE

Billy Emerson, the minstrel, and his aggregation of burnt-cork artists, are announced to appear at the Edgewood Avenue theater Thursday and Friday nights.

The highly colored posters chronicling this theatrical event state in big red characters that Billy Emerson's minstrels are grotesquely humorous in their original representation of Stanley's followers, and in their "original Zulu maneuvers."

A little farther down on the bill the startling announcement is made that "there is only one Billy Emerson."

If the bill writer had waited for the later developments of the last three days he might have stated that there is not any Billy Emerson at all.

He might have also canceled the statement that the show will appear at the Edgewood Avenue theater with a blaze of glory, Thursday and Friday nights, for it won't.

The show is defunct; and Billy Emerson, the gay minstrel man, has pocketed the receipts of the show and has skipped.

This act was not down on the bill, but it was done. The remarkable story, told Friday night, in Toledo, O., after Mr. Emerson had brushed the burnt cork off his shining countenance, Mr. Emerson did not bid his company goodby, but went without the least ceremony, taking the receipts of the night's show with him and leaving several of the members of the company "in the soup" as far as their salaries are concerned.

The company is, of course, not now numbered among the living, and the several artists composing it would like to get engagements.

Manager Kleibacker heard that the show was stranded in Toledo yesterday afternoon, and immediately swore out an attachment against about three hundred dollars of printing matter, in the company's bill trunks here. This stuff is now in the hands of a constable and it is not very likely that any fight will be made for the possession of it.

Mr. J. W. Campbell, general agent, and Mr. Harry S. Jones, assistant agent, of the show, have been in Atlanta since Friday last, and knew nothing of the fact that Emerson had absconded until they read it yesterday in Sunday morning's Cincinnati Enquirer.

"I am," said Mr. Campbell last night, when seen and questioned by THE CONSTITUTION, "the press representative of the show, and have been acting as general agent for two weeks in the place of a man who was discharged. I have always been kept informed by such letters as I received from the company that its business was big, and every thing flourishing. Our salaries have been kept as nearly paid up as is usual with such companies. On my arrival here I wired to Manager Kleibacker for instructions as to how much money to spend on opposition work, owing to the fact that Al Field's minstrels were here at the same night our show would be. I stood over for an answer until Sunday night, but none came. In the meantime the town had been billed and press work commenced. The first intimation we had from any source that the company had closed was the article in Sunday's Cincinnati Enquirer. I immediately wired to Mr. S. W. Brady, manager of the Toledo opera house, asking him about the story in the Enquirer. He corroborated that article.

"Of course, the company will not appear here as advertised. The baggage and trappings belonging to the show have all been levied on in Toledo for omnibus and hack hire. Manager Kleibacker will not lose anything by our engagement here as he has already attached sufficient of the company's unused printing to secure him against loss."

"I hold the contracts for the company, and will close with a company soon to appear here to fill our dates in the principal cities between here and New Orleans and the week's engagement in the Grand opera house at New Orleans as well as the principal cities of Texas and the south."

These gentlemen take the collapse of their company philosophically, and say they could not have been left in a better town. They will be idle long, however.

Meantime Billy Emerson's aggregation of artists would like an engagement, and Manager Kleibacker would talk with a show representative about getting the Edgewood Avenue playhouse for the two nights on which the now defunct show is billed to appear.

THE TRIAL POSTPONED.

A. A. Murphy Was Not Able to Be in Court and the Hastings-Hurtel Trial Postponed.

The trial of Gordon Hurtel and Jack Hastings in the recorder's court for assaulting A. A. Murphy, set for 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was again postponed, on account of Murphy's condition, he being unable to appear as a witness.

Mr. Murphy was able to be up yesterday, but did not come down. His physician advised him to remain in bed a few days yet, and in consequence of this, the trial was postponed until next Saturday afternoon.

The grand jury will today investigate the case. A number of witnesses have been summoned to appear and give testimony in the case.

It was stated yesterday that Mr. Al Harper would also be presented before the grand jury, for aiding and abetting in the assault on the fight. It is claimed that Mr. Harper caught hold of Captain E. M. Roberts and prevented him from separating Murphy and his antagonists, and that he furnished Mr. Hastings with a club, and knew at the time he was going to attack Mr. Murphy with it.

Mr. Harper laughed when asked about the matter and said that he was not in the fight. He said he had absolutely nothing to do with the affair and knows nothing about the club except what he has been told by Mr. Hastings, and further that he does not believe anybody will try to connect him with the affair in any such a light.
